Senior SAP FIORI developer for UI5 Front End

As a Senior FIORI developer, you will support large corporations with both business and technical challenges. You will work with the client defining the requirements for the front end and thereafter build and tailor the system accordingly. These projects also involve changes of internal routines and processes at the client side, thus supporting the client's change management in the user interfaces area is also expected. We seek initiative and appreciate new ideas, which question and enrich the way of working.

The ideal candidate:

You have more than 5 years of relevant working experience in areas of Fioris. It will be an advantage to have some experience with Treasury and Cash Management, however this is of less importance as you will be working within a team of functional consultants, that will support on the business perspective. The needed business part, we expect the candidate to learn over time based on project experience. It is beneficial to have experience from Test Management based on the technical testing needed.

Assignments:

You will be assigned to support the client through the overall project where your responsibility will be to focus on the front-end part and advice and guide the client in this area. A typical project will be ongoing for 6-12 months, where you might work jointly with a Junior Fiori consultant, in addition to the project team (normally 4-6 FTEs in the project from Nasarius side). An important part of this work will be to
